ANDOVER AGAIN FIGURES IN RAID

Local Police Make Big Haul on Gray Road Thursday
Seizing Complete and Well Arranged Distillery.

Three stills with gasoline stoves, mash, sirup and yeast ready for extensive operations were seized in a raid made Thursday morning about nine o'clock by Officers Napier, Saunders and Mears at the farm of Mrs. Horwin Glowaski, formerly known as the Tucker farm in the Cape District.

Edward and Joseph Glowaski, both young men in the early twenties, were placed under arrest, no resistance being offered. Bail to the amount of $500 each was provided at noon, and at a hearing before Judge Stone held yesterday afternoon both men were bound over to appear before the Federal Court on next Tuesday.

The stills were not in operation when seized and Joseph Glowaski at yesterday's preliminary hearing assumed all responsibility for the circumstance that the stills were on his mother's premises.

Beside the stills which were in a small room off the kitchen, the officers seized three gasoline stoves, eleven cases of sirup, two dozen packages of yeast and several empty kegs. These were conveyed by auto truck to the Town house. One hundred gallons of mash were destroyed on the premises. No liquor was found.

THE PILGRIM MARKET

Sale and Play Next Tuesday Afternoon and Evening Promises to Attract Many People.

Of course the "Pilgrim Market" is not supposed to open its doors until next Tuesday afternoon, but all this week the Pilgrim dames have been running to the telephone answering orders for their good things.

So please be like the wise vestal virgins and order your pies, doughnuts, mincemeat, etc., early, especially if you know your Thanksgiving guests have good New England appetites.

For if you wait, like the foolish virgin, there may be but one pie left for your twelve people, and you'll have to cut it by fractions and algebra to make it go around! Mrs. Boutwell, tel. 152W is chairman of the market.

But you will surely want to join the throng at the market between two and

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Clan Johnston met Thursday night at 7.30 in Garfield hall and Clan Johnston will meet tonight at the same hour and place.

The fire department was called Sunday to a small brush fire on the land of Mrs. Peter D. Smith. The irregular ringing of the alarm on Monday was caused by crossed wires.

Rev. Edward C. Boynton of Worcester will preach the sermon at the morning service at the Chapel Church next Sunday. Rev. Markham W. Stackpole will give the address at vespers.

Mrs. Edith Hill of the Tyer Rubber Co., speaks this afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society in the Free Church parish house on Industrial Nursing and Welfare Work.

J. E. Stephenson and daughter, Miss Emma Stephenson, and also his granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Taylor, who have been visiting relatives here, sailed Tuesday for their homes in England.

During Gen. Pershing's brief stay in Andover Saturday he and his host, Principal Perry of Exeter were entertained at lunch by Rev. and Mrs. Markham W. Stackpole at their home on Main street.

The Lunch Counter girls of the Punchard school will hold a dance in the school hall this evening and an enjoyable time is planned. The matrons are Miss Marjorie Faunce, Mrs. Roy W. Rhodes and Mrs. M. E. Dalton.

Local grangers made the trip to Plymouth Rock Monday with the National Grangers and at the excises prayer was offered by Rev. Albert H. Wheelock, state chaplain, and the father of Rev. A. S. Wheelock of the Free church.

Now is the time to part with that warm suit or coat which has escaped the former drives for clothing. The Tuesday Club will be glad to relieve you of it and will place it where it will do more good than in a camphor trunk in your attic. Tel. 260.

Miss E. J. Knox wishes to announce that she will meet her Andover customers at the Barnard street store, continuing to do business there as well as at the Fletcher stand in Lawrence. The local store will be open every week day and not on two days a week as previously stated.

Miss Carrie Merrill of the Tyer Rubber Company sustained a severe fall on Wednesday of last week which resulted in a serious fracture of her right elbow. She is recovering at the home of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Cole of 3 Poor street, Shawheen Village, where she will be glad to see her friends.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Warner gave an account of their journeys to home and foreign missions stations illustrated by colored lantern slides as well as by several motion pictures. Unfortunately the noise from the lantern was so great that many in the audience were unable to hear the lectures.

At a meeting of the Shawheen Boys' Club held last evening, Hon. John N. Cole gave a talk in which he emphasized the importance of creating a community spirit.

The usual Community Christmas service will be held this year under the leadership of the Episcopal church. Plans are already well advanced for a notable town event. Notice in due time.

The prettiest girl in Andover will be named "Miss Andover" at the dance of the Smith and Dove A. A. tonight in the Town hall. She will not know that she is being picked as the judges will be incognito and they will make their choice from the fair sex as they enjoy the dance. Millington's first orchestra will furnish the music.

A very enjoyable dance was held Wednesday in the town hall under the auspices of the R. C. O. A. and was well attended. Music was provided by Bardsley's Canobie Lake orchestra and many favorable comments were made on the excellence of the music. The committee of arrangements was: Robert MacCoubrie, chairman; Alexander Valentine, William McKee, James Low and George M. Knipe.

After considerable planning a committee of Free church women has finally decided to start a new club for young ladies of the Free church. Mrs. Hazel W. Harding, a graduate of the Framingham Normal School, has been selected as instructor and a meeting will be held Monday evening, November 22nd at 7.30 o'clock for the purpose of organization. All young ladies of the Free church over fifteen years of age are invited to be present. The organization will take the form of a sorority with secret initiations and meetings. Its purpose will be both religious and social with possibly simple instruction in sewing and cooking.

ANDOVER IS VICTORIOUS

Phillips Academy Football Team Repeats Triumph of Last Year by Winning From Exeter 6 to 3.

All previous records of attendance were broken on last Saturday afternoon when Andover triumphed over its ancient foe, Exeter, in the fortieth annual gridiron contest on Brothers Field. The attendance figures were placed at well over 8000 and the stands and field surrounding the gridiron were taxed to capacity.

It was a very nervous and anxious crowd too, for the game was not decided in favor of Andover until the whistle had blown at the end of the fourth period at which time Exeter was making a strong effort to ward off defeat by a march down the field. The visiting team seemed to have reserved its strength for one final effort but the time-keeper's whistle sounded when they were on Andover's 27-yd. line having carried the ball in straight rushing from their own 35-yd. line. That they would have eventually scored is very doubtful.

A fitting close to a week devoted to the American Legion and its interests came Sunday night when the Town hall was filled to the doors with Andover citizens drawn together by the desire to do honor not only to the men who gave their lives in the World War but to all their townsmen who answered their country's call. The great gathering of men and women irrespective of creed or class in the public meeting place, bright for the occasion with the national colors, made it a notable assembly.

Seated on the platform between the beautiful silk flags of the state and nation which belong to the Andover Post of the American Legion were the speakers of the evening: Rev. Markham W. Stackpole, chaplain of the 102nd Field Artillery, who presided; Rev. Fr. William J. Farrell of West Newton, chaplain of the 103rd Field Artillery, and Rev. Arthur Stanley Wheelock of Andover, chaplain of the 23rd Infantry of the famous Second Division, Rev. Fr. Campbell of St. Augustine's church and Rev. E. H. Prescott of the Baptist church.

The meeting opened with the singing of "America" after which Fr. Campbell

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17 —Already the members of the Senate and the House are hurrying back to town for the session of Congress about to open promises to be a very important one. The appropriation bills will be considered and passed and this is the one safe prediction that can be made as to the outcome of legislation at this time. There are so many big problems to be considered that the list is staggering. The session that will end with the inauguration of Senator Harding — that is for the old Congress adjourns one minute and the new one starts immediately so to speak — will pave the way for the new one to open as plans, to a certain extent, will be ready for immediate delivery. It is said now that the new president will call the extra session for March 15th. That will allow for a few weeks of organization but a short time only as compared to other years when the session has made a complete change of all branches necessary. No trouble is looked for as far as organization is concerned and the great questions before the country will be taken up as speedily as possible. The country will not see a new day dawn at once. The task is such a big one that the nation must become used to the adage that the world was not made in a day, neither can its blemishes be removed in a day either. The matters at hand will be rushed as speedily as it is possible to act in good faith towards the country. Already the rumblings are being heard as to the ultimate outcome of legislation and the outlook for the leaders is over a road rocky and long and dreary. The mess that things are now in is enough to wreck the stoutest heart yet the party in power has been charged in as solemn a referendum as was ever taken to correct the evils of the past few years and put the nation once more into its proper gear for good wheeling. And so each train brings the members all anxious to get under way with the business at hand and to pave the way for the new administration. There will be many new faces in the new Congress but the old and tried leaders of both parties for the most part are still to be on duty after March 4th.

"Everybody except Senator Harding is making cabinets," said a Senator just in from the West. He hit the nail on the head, too, for that is just the case. No doubt the next President is considering the members of his official family but aside from a few friends, the cabinet-making is not a public function at this time. The country will be informed in due season just the makeup of the cabinet and it is safe to wager that the men selected will be of some standing in the community. It will be recalled that when President Wilson was inaugurated there had been much speculation as to his cabinet and all sorts of slates had been made but the country was greatly surprised as to its makeup and it has been one continual surprise ever since as to certain members of that cabinet. Some have lasted the years, but why — well that is another story.

Speaking of cabinets and how secret their selection has been in years past reminds the writer of an incident that transpired on the eve of President Wilson's inauguration. Early in the evening on the third of March, the writer left the Capitol in a street car. He sat along side of Senator Thomas of Colorado and Representative Redfield of New York. The conversation between the two members of Congress very naturally drifted to the cabinet that the whole country awaited word of on the morrow. Several men were mentioned but not one name that was sent to the Senate for confirmation. Senator Thomas spoke of the retirement of Mr. Redfield and the New York representative said that he had enjoyed his service in the House and was ready for retirement. You can well imagine the surprise when the cabinet of President Wilson contained the name of Mr. Redfield of New York as Secretary of Commerce. There for half an hour in a Washington street car a Senator of the United States discussed a probable cabinet's makeup and told of being sorry to part with a member of the House when that member at the time was already selected as a cabinet official. Mr. Redfield kept his secret well. So while other folks are cabinet making the real force is silent so far as actual facts are concerned. It is well that this is so for many a plan may be wrecked by reckless cabinet making. History has and will so relate all such short-comings. Senator Harding has let it be known to the country that he will advise with others as to the nation's needs. He will select a cabinet of men who will be recognized as to ability for the tasks selected. That is true Americanism and a return to the ideals of America via a solemn referendum is joyful news to a storm-tossed land. "No man's land" is soon to remove itself from these United States never to return it is hoped. There is a wealth of cabinet material in both great parties and it should be reckoned with at all times. The various sections of the nation are to be respected but the real worth is the ability of the men selected. That they are genuine Americans, 100 per cent pure is the first quality, and ability is surely to be reckoned with in that event. The cabinet makers today say that Massachusetts should not have a cabinet member and that California and New York and Illinois should have this or should not have that man in the cabinet. Well, the people selected Senator Harding to be president and it is safe to say that he will not begin his administration by making a mess of his cabinet. Let Senator Harding decide this matter. Talk about it all you like, but for goodness sake do not slur the President at this stage of the game because some report has named a man for a cabinet official that looks at business as a vocation and not as a mere job. One trouble with the country is that there have been too many jobs. That policy has cost the taxpayers a pretty penny and will so continue for some time to come.

Chickens come home to roost. That is what they say and no doubt it is true now as in the days long past. Just recall when Congress came into session in the December after President Taft had carried Utah and Vermont. Well, the Democrats were a happy crowd at that time and well they might be. Now matters are a bit reversed only it is far worse for the Democrats now. They are in a mere minority. When President Taft sent in his first list of appointments the Democrats in the Senate called a halt. They said that it was not the proper thing to do for any appointment of a Republican president to be confirmed when in the coming March a Democratic president would be inaugurated. He should have the full power of appointment even before his term. Well that story is still fresh in the minds of several Senators who recalled those Democratic words told in all solemnity and glory. So the fireworks will be reversed in a short time and it is doubtful if all of President Wilson's appointments are confirmed. Some even venture to say that not one will be given favorable action. Rumors have it that Secretary Tumulty will be named for a $10,000 judgeship of the Commerce court and that as a special favor his confirmation will be asked. It is a custom for many years past that the secretary of the President has been given a good place on his chief's retirement. But the administration of Mr. Wilson has been so very different from all those before it, that there is some doubt if any appointment will get favorable action. But time will tell the real story. The Senate is a part of the United States government strange as it may seem and some Senators are not at all backward in saying so out loud. Mr. Tumulty has not been named yet, so why worry about his future job?

The treaty of peace is still a live topic at the big mansion on Pennsylvania avenue. Humor has it that it will go back to the Senate as soon as Congress comes in. If so, it may stay there for a few weeks. The recent event should cause no one to worry as to that treaty. Actions speak louder than words and the solemn referendum is still sounding its voice all over the land. To many minds the matter of postmasters is of more interest and that question is very much alive for it may be possible that the next administration will place the postmasters where they belong rather than to allow them to remain in a so-called civil service rule that works via Democratic channels always. But in one or two instances the rule was wrong for the Democrats for a Republican got into office. But for the most part the executive order of President Wilson placing the postmasters all under the civil service was a rule for Democrats only under the Burleson route. But that road was wrecked in a landslide on November 2nd last.

Tariff and taxes will play an important part in the months to come. Already Mr. Fordney of the House Ways and Means Committee has his committee at work and taxation and tariff problems are to be considered without delay. The country needs relief from both tariff and taxation and business is calling for a correction of evils arising from errors in the laws as now in force.

Speaker Gillett of Massachusetts will be re-elected. Former Speaker Champ Clark, the most beloved man in the House, retires to his farm in Missouri, but like old Uncle "Joe" Cannon he says he will be back again. The members hope so for they all love Champ Clark, the man who almost became a president. Hotels are booking reservations for March 4th next. Better engage quarters now for there will be just a few folks from back home here to see the parade and everything. Be sure you come too, but get your room key now while you can.

Soccer

The Smith and Dove team surprised the Champion Abbott Worsteds eleven in an Industrial League soccer game last Saturday when with only eight men in the line-up they held the Forge Village side to one goal. Because of a misunderstanding three of the Flax Mill team were missed by the motor barge which took the team to Forge Village; this caused the shortage. When the game started the Abbott expected to have an easy time but as attempt after attempt to score failed the Champions tightened and after the first fifteen minutes were trying their hardest to get goals. They only got one and the chief reason they got no more was the wonderful playing of John Deyermont in goal for Smith and Dove. Some of the stops made by Deyermont were miraculous. He played like a professional, throwing himself through the air at the high ones or down on the ground after the low shots and getting the ball away from the goal with two and sometimes three men on him. Time after time he was applauded for his efforts and he deserved it.

The three forwards did as well as could be expected though they were too well covered to have much chance at scoring. Low, playing alone at full-back did well and Coleman, Haddon and Cargill covered a great deal of ground both in defending and in the little attacking which was permitted them against such odds.

The Abbott team except for the backs and goalie was poor. Clegg missed numberless chances and played poorly throughout. At the other end of the line Gilmarin with lots of scope played a good game but he also missed many chances to score. At center Taylor was very weak and missed times with the goal at his mercy.

Before the game the Abbott Worsteds brass band played and after the contest the Andover team and its supporters were treated to coffee and doughnuts at the Abbott Company hall.

Abbott Worsteds: Morley; Jackson and Hulce; Mitchell, Kelley and Orr; Gilmarin, Turnbull, Taylor, Doherty and Clegg.

Smith and Dove: J. Deyermont; Low; Coleman, Haddon and Cargill; W. Deyermont, Brown and Moffat.

Score: Abbott Worsteds 1, Smith and Dove 0. Goal: by Taylor. Referee: Mr. Woodcock of Lawrence.

Work

"Employment is nature's physician." Health is maintained by occupation. When one quits work he loses the pep that comes to him from doing something and being of some use, of responding to demands and maintaining a routine and his muscles get soft, his internal organs go on strike, his appetite fails and he loses sleep. Work is necessary to growth, because through it one acquires strength of mind and body. Both brain and muscle grow strong by exercise by assuming responsibilities, by bearing burdens and doing things. Work of some sort is as necessary to health as eating and drinking.

Idleness and inaction breed nervous prostration, fear, worry, gossip, crime, constipation, and a host of evils. We make friends through work, we find in it beauty, humor, pathos—all that goes to make up a full, normal life. Congenial work is as necessary to peace of mind as it is for the health of the body; it is the symbol and avenue for almost all that is worth while in human life. The happiest hours of your life would be when you are working, and you can learn to like any work you may be doing. But whatever your job is you should dignify and vitalize it by putting your ideal into it, giving your life, your energy, your enthusiasm, all to the highest work of which you are capable. Your heart must inspire what your hands execute. Your work sometimes may be hard and thankless, but like tough metal it serves to suit the needs of a strong man and is better suited to that purpose than sipping soft drinks at a summer resort.

Cut out your "slovenly" if you have one. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and feel sorry for others. When you pity yourself because you think you have a hard job you soul shrivels up, but when you pity others you soul expands and grows. When you are troubled with grouching and self-pity just remember that you are in a universal guild of toil and the universal forces are infinitely adaptable to the poor jobs as well as to the good ones, and that someone must do the work—why not you? Any labor will be irksome if done in a discontented, unhappy spirit. "Who sweeps a room as in his sight makes that and the action fine."

The curious effect sometimes produced in telegrams by want of punctuation or the omission of a single small word cannot fail to have struck every one.

A London lawyer had a woman relative in Scotland from whom he had "expectations." She had been ailing for some weeks, when one morning came a telegram asking the lawyer's wife to go at once, as she—his aunt—was much worse. His wife accordingly went.

During the evening of the following day the husband received this announcement:

"Aunt Matilda went to Heaven at 3.30 returning by 11.50 tomorrow morning."

MEMORIAL SERVICE

offered the prayer of invocation which was as follows:

"We beseech Thee, O Almighty and Eternal Father, to look with pity upon Thy departed children, and graciously hear supplications which we offer Thee in the name of those who laid down their lives on the field of battle in order that we might live, and that through their sacrifice, peace and prosperity might be restored to a world devastated by the horrors of war.

"As Thy Divine Son, the King of Peace, came into this world to give peace to men of good will, and to teach them the lesson of charity, guide and counsel rulers and peoples so that love may reign forever among all men.

"Comfort the countless mothers who mourn the loss of their beloved children, and the numberless families bereaved of their fathers.

"Remove from their hearts the spirit of rebellion; console them in their hour of grief, so that through their tears they may look up to Thee, the God of all consolation, and receive the strength and courage to vindicate Thy honor and glory, for the purpose that they may at the end of this mortal life join their heroic sons in singing Thy praises for all eternity in the Heaven. Amen."

Chaplain Stackpole was the first speaker and his address was as follows: "I do not fear that we shall ask you too often to join with us in thinking of the war and the great day that marked its ending; nor that we shall call you too

Rev. E. H. Prescott, representing "those who stayed at home" said that though it was a magnificent thing for those who were glad to go for the sake of a great cause and fight for right, truth and justice, yet it should be remembered that great sacrifice was made and courage shown by brothers, sisters, wives, fathers and above all by mothers who bravely gave up their loved ones. He was assured that they felt a holy joy mixed with their pain that they had a share in purchasing peace and prosperity for the world.

The speaker's answer to the question why all this suffering was permitted was that the innocent as well as the guilty were drawn into the vortex because a nation had dared to defy the program of Almighty God.

The challenging call is still upon every one to bring about a world where war will be impossible and where fraternity will exist among all nations, and in this task members of the American Legion may also have a part.

Mr. Prescott closed with a tribute to those who in their own bodies had sown seed which shall bring forth the fruit of a world redeemed through blood.

Mr. Stackpole introduced Rev. Fr. Farrell as "a gallant soldier, a wonderful colleague, and a beloved friend."

Fr. Farrell expressed his pleasure in accepting the invitation to speak in Andover coming from so valued a friend as Mr. Stackpole, and also acknowledged his indebtedness to the Andover Council Knights of Columbus who had placed in his hands a sum of money to be spent for the comfort of the soldiers in camp at Boxford.

REV. MARKHAM W. STACKPOLE
Chaplain Andover Post, No. 8, American Legion

frequently to remember those who came not with the rest when the boys came home, or those who returned with maimed bodies, or sightless eyes, and some without 'the kindly light of reason.'

"Those of us who were there cannot forget and some of you before me, can never, through all the coming years, and some without 'the kindly light of reason.'

"But in these times of our peace and prosperity, and while men and women, and especially little children of war-stricken lands far off are still homeless and hungry, many of us need days like this, after 'the tumult and the shouting' have died, and the navies have melted away, 'lest we forget.' Still others who are younger, must learn from that which their fathers and brothers, their mothers and their older friends shall tell them of the stress and strain of war, of the vigor and the valor which it called forth, of the suffering and fortitude which followed battle, of the anxious suspense and the devoted toil of those who could not go, of those shattered men whom it sent home to face the years of thwarted promise, and of that hundred thousand whose forms lie still, but whose 'souls go marching on.' Some of these were most near and dear to families of this community, and now they belong to us all.

During the meeting J. Everett Collins sang Kipling's "Recessional" and "My God and Father." Mrs. Joseph M. Ashton rendered a beautiful violin solo with Prof. Ashton as accompanist. Edwin G. Booth at the piano, F. G. Moore as conductor and a part of the men's chorus of the Free church led in the singing.

The order of exercises was as follows: Audience Prayer of Invocation Rev. P. J. Campbell, O. S. A. Solo, Kipling's "Recessional" J. Everett Collins Armistice Day Tribute Rev. M. W. Stackpole, Chaplain 102 F. A. One minute's silence followed by prayer. Hymn, "America the Beautiful" Address, "Those Who Stayed at Home" Rev. E. H. Prescott Violin Solo, "Andante Religioso", Rehearsal Mrs. Joseph M. Ashton Address, "Memories of the War" Rev. Fr. W. J. Farrell, Chaplain 103 F. A. Solo, "My God and Father" J. Everett Collins Address, "Armistice Day Memories" Rev. Arthur Stanley Wheelock, Chaplain 23rd Inf., 2nd Division Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers" Benediction Rev. M. W. Stackpole

"You have read of the 'great stillness' when all wheels stopped and all voices were hushed, the two minutes of silence with which one of the allied nations observed that hour of 'humanity's relief' two years ago, when after more than fifty-one months of destruction and terror and sudden death, the firing ceased at last along those hundreds of miles of the 'far-flung battle line.'

"In remembrance of that moment and of its meaning and in tribute to all who in life and in death made that glad day possible, I ask you to stand in silence in token of your thankfulness to God and your faith in your country."

ANDOVER VICTORIOUS

as on two or three occasions earlier in the game the Blue line had stiffened when their goal was threatened. The most notable instance of their display of strength came in the middle of the second period when Exeter could not put the ball over when only two feet away from the goal line.

The Exeter team showed up much better than Andover in the kicking department but the teams were nearly evenly matched in all other departments of the game. Allen who did the punting for the Blue was woefully weak while his opponent, Reed got off some fine kicks.

Andover made a strong bid for first scoring honors in the beginning of the second period when Captain Wingate threw a pretty forward pass to Tillson from the 20-yard line, but the ball slipped through the latter's hands over the Exeter goal line and a golden opportunity was lost. Exeter secured the first points and incidentally its only score in the third period when Barry, standing on his 23-yard line kicked a drop over the cross bar. Just before the close of the second period he had made an attempt which failed and the first half ended without a score by either team.

The play that gave the victory to Andover was one of the most spectacular ever seen on the local gridiron. It was a forward pass from Wingate to Mahrt, who jumped high into the air over the heads of at least four Exeter men and grasping the ball firmly, fell across the Exeter goal line for Andover's six points. Captain Wingate missed his first try for goal this season.

In a close study of the playing of the teams it is seen that the teams carried the ball about the same number of yards in straight rushing. Andover's fifty-six rushes netting 195 yards while Exeter made 158 yards in forty-six rushes. In punting Andover made only an average of 26-10 yards to Exeter's 38-5-9 yards. Each team made eight first downs in rushing. The longest run-in from a kick-off was made by Captain Wingate in the third period when he made twenty-five yards before being downed. The longest forward pass was made also in the third period when Wingate hurled the ball to Mahrt for an advance of twenty-three yards.

One of the interesting features of the game was the presence of General John J. Pershing who was the guest of Principal Perry in the Exeter stand.

Long Elevator Travel

If by some magic process you could ride in all of the elevators of the Municipal Building at the same time and add together the distances that they travel in a year you would find that the total would reach about 165,000 miles, says the New York Evening Sun. This means if the elevators were to work night and day you would travel far enough to reach the moon in about fifteen months. Under the present operation of less than twelve hours the journey would take about a year and a half.

One Reason for the High Cost of Milk

Massachusetts dairy farmers have the most hired help and their wives do the least in the dairy business of any state in New England, according to data which has been collected by the Department of statistics of the New England Milk Producers' Association. The records show that nearly 31 per cent of the dairy labor is hired help and farmers' wives do only .6 of one per cent. This is a striking contrast to Connecticut dairy farm conditions where there is only about half as much hired help and where the women do 11 times as much dairy work on the average.

The percentage of hired help on dairy farms is lowest in Maine where the farmers and members of the family do 92 per cent of all the dairy work and where the hired labor is about eight percent of the total. Maine women are in between in dairy activity with a record of more than four per cent while the Maine farmer himself holds the record of performing more than 76 per cent of all the dairy labor personally.

Vermont is strongest on boy labor on the dairy farms, the records showing that boys under 18 perform 13 per cent of all the dairy work. Vermont women are second only to Connecticut women in the amount of dairy work they do. But Vermont daughters are next to the lowest in the scale with less than one per cent of work to their credit. Connecticut girls stand the highest with a record of nearly 6 per cent.

These figures were secured by the New England Milk Producers' Association in an effort to determine the actual costs of producing milk under the average conditions on the dairy farms throughout New England. The percentage of home labor, which is not paid for directly, runs high. It must be taken into account in determining costs.

The high percentage of unpaid family labor in New Hampshire and Vermont is one of the reasons why milk is supposed to be produced more cheaply there. If it were counted in, the difference in production costs between Massachusetts and the more northern states would be less.

A doctor attended an old lady from Scotland who had caught a severe cold.

"Did your teeth chatter when you felt the chill coming over you?" asked the doctor.

"I dinna ken, doctor; they were lying on the table!"

Needless Worry Over Gov. Coolidge

The public is very much interested apparently in determining whether the Vice President is to pay his own house rent or have the Government pay it. Governor Coolidge's own comment is the most interesting contribution to this discussion, in that it makes very clear that the Governor considers that he still is able to care for his own household affairs, and is not going to make himself, by any act of his, dependent upon the Government. As a matter of fact, Governor Coolidge has never been dependent upon the Government for anything thus far, except for the opportunity to prove his fitness to do the day's work, and it would seem as if the general public ought to understand this characteristic by this time.

The Vice President-elect is an exponent of the simple life solely because that is the atmosphere in which he has been trained, and the characteristics of the simple life are those that he approves. The character sketch of him and his family now running in the Boston Globe from the pen of M. E. Hennessey is a delightful review of the life of this very remarkable man. Like most things that Mr. Hennessey writes, it is intensely human, and again like most things that the Globe publishes, it is very carefully edited and true to detail. Washington does not know Vice President Coolidge, and is in for a most interesting experience when it does become acquainted. Let no one, down there expect that he and his charming wife are going to have their heads turned because they have been given one more opportunity to do service. On the contrary, they are bound to go at the job, whatever particular thing may be involved in it, in the same simple straightforward, honest-purpose way that they have in all other tasks set before them in the public life that they have thus far both been associated with.

Massachusetts is going to be very proud when her first citizen and the wife of her first citizen take their places in Washington, and the pride will not be because of the number of balls or receptions that they direct, but because they pass on the atmosphere of all that is best in New England living.

A Real Swindle

The writer seated himself at a table in one of Boston's best restaurants a night or two ago, for a hurried meal before taking the train for home, and ordered roast lamb and nothing else. He got roast lamb, — or roast sheep, because it was not over tender, — and nothing served with it except the ice water, and the price was ninety cents. Now it was possible to find ninety cents to pay the bill without seriously wrecking the bank account of the moment, but what an outrage it is to serve a small, thin slice of roast lamb, not too tender, without a single thing accompanying it, at a charge of ninety cents. When potatoes went to five dollars a bushel, this same restaurant withdrew them from side order service, and made for them a separate charge. Now that potatoes are around a dollar and a half a bushel, the same custom prevails.

The writer is not going to that restaurant again, simply because it is high time that the public stops standing for this kind of swindle, and when the public gets ready to refuse to pay the price, the prices will come nearer to what the public ought to pay. The alternative to it is undoubtedly a high-grade hotel, and a greater charge, but at least the "overhead", of which the restaurant keeper boasts and does not provide, will be provided at the hotel without boasting.

The Other Side of the Shield

The shield is having the other side now displayed to most people. In fact, in increasing numbers men and women are appreciating that the enormous wages, light work, and idle hours are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. The other side of the shield reflects shut-downs, short hours, cutting down of wages, men on the streets seeking work, and all sorts of conditions that say that these last three years are simply to become a record of the swing of the pendulum a little further one way than ever before, and that the next three years will see the pendulum swing correspondingly further the other way than ever before, unless the balance is struck more easily than it seems likely to be at the present time.

And the balance is always struck sooner or later. Big fortunes come easy, and almost universally go easy, and the great middle class that we talk so much about as not getting its share of the advantages, frequently finds itself the great middle class in not getting its share of the disadvantages, so that in the final analysis they represent the fair balance. We are in for some pretty serious times, according to all appearances, with business slacking up in a startling way, with practically no call for the important commodities, with the price of almost every raw material lower than it has been known for many years, and with the market so filled that it does not seem willing to absorb any more manufactured goods. The manufacturer has but one course to follow, and that is to shut down and wait for the buying power to assert itself. The whole program of making goods has been along such intensive lines for so long a time that it is difficult for many people to understand the seriousness of what is now upon us, but it is here and we have got to meet it, and some trouble is likely to attend it.

Surely We May Be Thankful

Thanksgiving! Well, it would seem as if the public has some things to be thankful for, particularly that portion of it living in the United States. In the first place, we have gotten rid of a government that will have more things to answer for in connection with the prosperity of the American people for the next five years than any government that has existed from the time of George Washington. Let it rest in peace, but surely we may be thankful for it.

We have had a wonderful fall, with coal bins much fuller than they were a year ago, and with prospects for a comfortable winter quite promising. Surely we may well be thankful.

The harvests have been abundant and the prices of the things that make up necessities are rapidly dropping, all leading toward a better condition in which the man's pocketbook, even though it is a little flatter, will find the demands upon it much more nearly in harmony than they have been sometimes in the past few years. Surely we may be thankful.

Peace, health, and good will are also asserting themselves rather more forcibly this year than for many years. Surely we may be thankful.

Yes, it is a pretty good old world after all. When we come to count all the good things and set them up in a row as an offset to a lot of the little troubles, the good things get better and bigger, and the troubles grow smaller and less important. Surely we may be thankful.

Editorial Cinder

In a rattling game last Saturday, Andover again proved her superiority over Exeter in the annual football game. To be sure it was by a very close score, for it was doubtful if ever two more evenly matched teams were brought together, and never were the fortunes of football more evident. Coach Daly has now to his credit two victories and one defeat, a mighty fine record, and those who know him and his methods are delighted with his successes. There are a lot of things more important than winning football matches, but sometimes losing football matches makes the game seem very important. We may well take pleasure over the successes that have been coming to Phillips Andover, after some years of being in the dumps.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Daly of North Main street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday at their home on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Daly were married on November 10, 1870 in Somersworth, N. H., by Rev. Fr. Canavan and after four years of married life removed to Ballardvale where they resided until 1893. Mr. Daly built the large business block in Elm square which bears his name and has since made his home there.

Wednesday the anniversary was fittingly celebrated with mass at 8:00 o'clock in St. Augustine's church by Rev. James E. White of North Conway, N. H. In the afternoon there was a family gathering at the home and Mr. and Mrs. Daly received not only the congratulations of their many friends but also many valuable gifts, among which were a gold-headed cane, a purse of $600 in gold and a gold loving cup. Many telegrams of congratulation were received and a profusion of floral offerings.

Mr. and Mrs. Daly were both born in Ireland, the former coming to this country in 1861 and the latter in the late '50's. Mr. Daly was fifty years in the employ of the Boston and Maine railroad and forty-six of these were as crossing tender at Ballardvale. He retired from active service last spring. Mr. Daly also conducted a grocery store in Ballardvale with great success and the business is now carried on in Andover by his son, William.

Mr. and Mrs. Daly have five children, Dr. Jeremiah J. Daly and William of this town, Dr. John Daly of Lynn, Miss Julia Daly of Andover and Mrs. D. J. Mulane of Jamaica Plain and also several grandchildren.

Free Church Missionary Meeting

Friday, November 12th, the home of Mrs. Charles Baldwin was invaded by an enthusiastic throng of ladies, eager to know more about "The Bible and Missions." Reports on the first chapter of this book were given by Mrs. F. A. Wilson, Mrs. Harry Ramsdell, Mrs. Wm. J. Mitchell, Miss Edith Donald, Miss Mary E. Carter and Mrs. Mary E. Todd. Mrs. James P. Christie added much to the enjoyment of the occasion by her Japanese songs, rendered with sweetness and charm. Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Baldwin.

WORK OF RED CROSS

Subscriptions Come In Slowly In Spite of Canvass of Many Workers

Seven million cases of varied service rendered the American soldier or his family at home is one impressive item in the record of American Red Cross activities from the entrance of the United States into the World War until the close of the fiscal year.

This is an entirely separate item from the list of the millions of cases in which needed service was given to European victims of the war. It is an entry on the American page of the great ledger recording the humane works of the American Red Cross.

That page is by no means filled in. It is a page whose end indeed should not be reached so long as this country exists. It is a truism that peace has its great needs as well as war. The American Red Cross is today doing its best to serve these needs, with which the perfect catholicity of its organization, its large experience and its nation-wide scope so well fit it to cope.

Its work for the men of both army and navy still continues and will continue for an indefinite period. That is in a way an automatic activity fulfilling the terms of the contract between the Government and the American Red Cross. It is a big and important job. But the Red Cross has other jobs, as big

Concert by Betsy Lane Shepherd

Andover can count itself fortunate in having the opportunity to hear Betsy Lane Shepherd, the celebrated soprano, in a concert on Wednesday, December the first at the Town hall. Mrs. Shepherd is gifted with a beautiful clear voice and she promises to sing some of the greatest successes for Andover folks. "Heart Songs" are one of Betsy Lane Shepherd's specialties. Just what heart songs are is a question very hard to define. Somebody says they are "songs which go straight to the heart" — not a very lucid explanation to be sure.

However, that may be, most any song rendered in Betsy Lane Shepherd's clear, high, tender voice will go straight to your heart, and Andover music lovers will rejoice in this unlooked for opportunity to hear Mrs. Shepherd sing. The concert will be an invitation affair.

Tuesday Club Asks Help for Rummage Sale

The Tuesday Club begs the assistance of its friends in getting together material for a Rummage Sale, which will be held on December 3rd the proceeds of the sale being used for the charity work of the club. Since the mills are shutting down or running on part time, there will be a need for the warm clothing which can surely be spared by some and gladly bought by others. Next week's Townsman will announce where the sale is to be held and at what time the room will be open for the reception of donations.

The Club will be glad to make collections, date being given in the Townsman, if any of the following are notified: Mrs. Chester D. Abbott, tel. 195-M; Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell, 459-W; Mrs. Frank H. Hardy, 69; Mrs. Matthew W. Colquhoun, 260; Mrs. George E. Hussey, 565; Mrs. H. Allison Morse, 357-M; Mrs. P. B. Whittemore, 387-M.

Many Visitors at Opening of New Art Department

The opening of the new art department at the Andover Bookstore on yesterday attracted a throng of appreciative visitors.

The expressions of admiration at the varied and artistic display which were heard on every hand were well merited, as Andover now has one of the most effective stores of its kind in New England possibly excelled only by some of the larger art shops in Boston.

The beautiful display of brass, copper and pottery in the Main street window flanked by the handsome baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums gave the public a little foretaste of the well-chosen selection of high-class goods arranged for their inspection within the store.

In the bookstore were the usual lines of engraved stationery and books which are now ready for the Christmas trade. Beyond in what was formerly the library were the entirely new lines of framed and unframed pictures; shining brass contrasted with the mahogany of candlesticks; the lustre of pottery and English ware in harmonious colors against a background of old blue made a kaleidoscope of color under the soft glow of shaded lights.

The flowers which added so much to the general effect were furnished through the courtesy of J. H. Playdon, the florist.

A box of Maillard's candy or bridge score cards with a 1921 calendar were presented to each guest.

How About a 275th Anniversary Celebration

A meeting will be held in the rooms of the Andover Historical Society, 71 Main street, Saturday evening, November 20th at eight o'clock.

The meeting is open to any person who may be interested in some form of observance of the town's two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary. No plan has been formulated thus far, and it is for this purpose that the meeting is open to all, for a free and unbiased discussion, the appointment of a committee if deemed advisable, and the time and place of future meetings. The celebration should occur during the month of May 1921.

One Pipe—The Modern way to Heat

THE MAGGEE ONE-PIPE FURNACE is the new principle in heating to which the householder may confidently look for the realization of what he has always hoped for in his heater—"hoped for" but never "realized."

To-day this realization is made possible by the unique features presented in the Maggee system. Through its single warm-air pipe, the Maggee sends all of the warm air which is generated, upstairs into the house where it is needed. Coal bills do not look so large when you realize that all of the coal heat which you pay for is utilized; no part of it is wasted. Think it over and

Natural History Society Plans Geology Lectures

At the regular meeting of the Andover Natural History Society held Tuesday evening in the lecture room of the Pynchard School only ten members were present. The report of the secretary was read and accepted and four new members were voted into the society.

Announcement was made of a series of lectures on geology given by Edwin T. Brewster, the first of which will be on Monday evening in the lecture room of the Pynchard School. The subject will be "Hard Rocks" and the talk will be illustrated by lantern slides.

Warren L. Johnson has kindly consented to give an account of his recent trip to Nova Scotia illustrated by lantern slides prepared from his own photographs. The date for this meeting will be announced later.

The topic for the evening was "The Hills of Andover" and after a paper read by Warren L. Johnson, other members of the society spoke briefly of the hills with which they were familiar.

November Club Notes

The season of the November Club opened on Monday afternoon when the members of the club and their guests gathered to enjoy a delightful musical program rendered by artists heard again in Andover with renewed pleasure: Mrs. Langdon Simons, soprano; Mrs. Albert James Knights, pianist; Miss Dixon, violinist.

The rare musical quality of Mrs. Simons' voice and her finished and artistic rendering of the selected songs gave her audience great pleasure. In response to hearty applause she sang as encores, "The Star" by Rogers and "Early Morning" by Graham Peel. Mrs. Philip Ripley was a sympathetic accompanist.

The playing of the promising young musicians, Mrs. Knights and her sister, Miss Dixon, at the Abbot musicale last June will be remembered as one of the pleasant features of the 1920 commencement. Mrs. Knights, in addition to the Scherzo-Valse by C. Denne, played Miss Dixon's accompaniments.

The program was as follows:

Giuse alfin il Momento	Mosari
Gavotte	Mrs. Simons F. J. Gossec
Canto Amoroso	Miss Dixon Elman
The Time for Making Songs Has Come	Rogers
Scherzo-Valse	Mrs. Simons C. Denne
Payage	Mrs. Knights Hahn
Fêtes Galantes	Hahn
Berceuse	Gretchenow
Melody	Mrs. Simons Charpentier
Berceuse Slave	F. Norval
Marches des Petits Soldats de Plomb	Pierre
Musetta Waltz	Miss Dixon Puccini
	Mrs. Simons

At the close of the program afternoon tea was served with Mrs. John Towle and Mrs. Charles Thompson pouring. The decorations were single chrysanthemums; yellow for the tea table, and pink for the stage.

The Department of Music will meet with Mrs. John C. Angus on Monday afternoon, November 22nd, at 3.30.

The Department of Drama met on Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse. Mrs. Mildred Carr Dana read "Everywoman."

The Department of Literature met with Mrs. M. E. Guttererson on Wednesday afternoon, November 17th.

The Department of French will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 3.45 in the lecture room of the Pynchard School.

The Department of Civics meets this afternoon and every alternate Friday afternoon at 3.15 at the clubhouse with Mrs. Claude U. Gilson as the speaker on current history.

The Department of Art will meet at the clubhouse on Monday afternoon, November 22nd at 3.30. Miss Emily A. Means will speak on the work of William Morris Hunt.

Announcement was made of two card parties; one to be held on the afternoon of December 9th, and the other on the evening of February 10th.

Mrs. Philip F. Ripley reported for the Public Service Committee which works in co-operation with the Board of Health nurse and asked for contributions toward a fund which may be drawn upon for relief work during the coming winter.

Assigned to Sea Duty

Lieutenant Arthur H. Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cummings of High street, who has been stationed in West Virginia, for some time, has again been ordered to sea duty, and is now on the U. S. S. destroyer Stringham. He has had a very successful career in the U. S. navy rising from the ranks to his present position. He was in the convoy service during the war, and crossed with troops many times. Lieut. Cummings is also an expert on torpedoes and his many friends will be glad to hear of his promotion.

Andover Boy is Captain

The fine, steady playing and all-round sportsmanship of Leo F. Daley, a local boy has secured for him the captaincy of the 1921 football team at Phillips Academy. The election was held on Wednesday afternoon after the picture of the team had been taken and the choice is an especially popular one not only among townspeople but in the school. The team was unanimous in its choice for Mr. Daley.

The captain-elect was born in Andover and first gained prominence as a football player at Pynchard under the tutelage of Coach Eugene V. Lovely. He entered Phillips Academy last fall and was a star tackle all during the season, playing an especially good game at Exeter. This year he started at tackle but just before the Exeter game he was shifted to the back-field, taking Ellis' place. It is the opinion of many close followers of the game that he is one of the best tackles ever to wear the Blue of Andover.

American Legion Notes

Tonight at eight o'clock a meeting of the chairmen in charge of the various tables at the recent successful bazaar of the Post will be held at headquarters to settle accounts.

The annual election of officers of the Post will take place next Tuesday evening and a full attendance is urged.

An Auxiliary to the Post, will be formed soon after Thanksgiving, on a date which will be announced. Only the mothers, wives or sisters of members of the Legion now in good standing are eligible to join the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Will Receive Gold Footballs

The members of the victorious Phillips Academy football team who took part in the game against Exeter Saturday, will receive gold footballs. A collection was taken in Chapel Tuesday morning for this purpose and the order to supply the footballs has been awarded to H. F. Chase. These footballs are of fourteen karat gold and are inscribed with the year and score. Fourteen members of the team and Manager Hammond will receive the footballs.

Annual Fireman's Ball

The forty-ninth annual fireman's ball will be held in the Town hall on Wednesday evening, November 21.

An order of twenty-two dances has been arranged and Millington's orchestra will furnish music.

The committee in charge consists of J. Fred Coles, chairman, Ira Buxton, Alex McKenzie, Kerr Dparks and Ivan E. Steadman.

Saturday Afternoon Walks

Members of the Andover Natural History society and their friends ready for a five-mile walk will take the 1.45 car for Ballardvale road on Saturday afternoon. No lunch will be carried. Last week several members enjoyed a walk through West Parish.

Meeting of Baptist Mission Circle

On Thursday afternoon, the 11th, twelve ladies of the Baptist church gathered at the home of Mrs. Mary S. Jackson for the November missionary meeting. Various items of business were transacted before the lesson for the day was taken up. To the music of the bright fire crackling in the fireplace, the company proceeded to bring forth the teachings of the second chapter of the study book, which is entitled "The Bible and Missions." Rich revelations of the missionary principles laid down in the Old Testament are found in the New Testament, the whole Bible, "God's missionary text-book," being filled with that message. There are the lessons on the coming of the Kingdom, and the message shown in the life and the direct commands of Jesus Christ, and His training of the apostles, the circles to enlarge to the final girdling of the earth. In Acts is seen the expansion of the church, and the accompanying demand for heroism. Through the epistles and the rest of the New Testament runs the great note of faith, mighty in the carrying out of Christ's missionary program. He spent much of His time in "preparing a group whom He could so charge with His spirit that through them the work for the whole might be done."

At the close of the profitable session, cocoa was served, also a delicious and beautiful birthday cake, a toothsome post-celebration of the birthday of the hostess, recently passed.

Obituary

JAMES K. NICOLL

James K. Nicoll, a well-known resident of Andover, died late Friday night at the family home, 28 Shaw-shen road, after a long illness. Mr. Nicoll was formerly employed in the Smith and Dove Company's plant, but illness had compelled him to retire from active work some time ago.

He was born in Arbroath, Scotland, fifty-two years ago, and had lived in this town for the past ten years where he leaves a large circle of friends. He is survived by his wife, Mary, nine children, Mrs. Annie Deans of Scotland, Mrs. John Black of Beverly, Mrs. George Mitchell of Andover, James, Jr., of Ballardvale, Misses Helen and Jennie Nicoll and John, William and Neil, all of Andover; also his father, three sisters and one brother, all residing in Scotland.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the home at 2.00 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. F. A. Wilson, pastor emeritus of the Free church. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

The bearers were: Edward S. Emslie, James Walker and Thomas S. Valentine, representing Clan McPherson lodge, O. S. C., John Holden from the British Social club, David Guthrie and William Haddon from Smith and Dove company.

Abbot Academy Notes

Dr. Clarence Barbour, President of Rochester Theological Seminary, gave a very inspiring talk at Chapel on Saturday evening.

The school will begin to celebrate Thanksgiving on Monday evening, November 22, by hearing Mr. Ellsworth's richly illustrated lecture on "The Pilgrim Fathers." As announced last week, the public is cordially invited to share the pleasure of this unusually interesting and timely lecture. Wednesday morning chapel exercises will be the traditional Abbot Thanksgiving service, loved of the students for many generations. The school recess will last from Wednesday afternoon until 6.00 p.m. Friday.

The Honor Roll for the First Semester is as follows:—

90%—Harriet Edgell, Elizabeth McClellan.
89%—Beatrice Goff, Katherine Knight, Miriam Sweeney, Agnes Titcomb, Elizabeth Whittemore.
88%—Helen Baker, Ruth Davies, Marian Swan.

King's Daughters Plan Musicales

Under the auspices of the Courteous Circle of King's Daughters a musicale will be given in the South Church vestry on Thursday evening, December 9.

Miss Grafton to Receive Valuable Estate

The remarkable work of Miss Mary L. Grafton of Sivas who is well known in Andover has recently been recognized by the gift of a large estate in the outlying district, acquired by Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany before the war and which he intended for occupancy by a German Governor of the city. His scheme of conquest being dashed, the property would have been confiscated, but the caretaker persuaded the owner to present it to Miss Grafton for a relief-work center. Trades schools, mills and a farm go with the estate.

Survivors of the 25,000 Armenians driven on the march to death six years ago are returning to rehabilitate Sivas.

Miss Grafton was the head of the Sivas Teachers' College which before the war was training native teachers. She remained at her post and for a long time during the war was the only American at Sivas. Her knowledge of Turkish, Armenian and German, her fine education and her forceful character have combined to make her one of the strong influences in that region, and have enabled her to play a notable part in the stirring events of the last six years which as General Harbord has said, "has probably never been equalled by any other woman in the chronicles of missionary effort."

Although born in Maine, Miss Grafton was educated here and is a member of the South church. She has been absent from this country for fourteen years, refusing to come home. Her parents, who now live in Lewiston, Me., were former residents of Andover.

Genius is invariably absent-minded. A famous Scotch professor was no exception to the rule. He had returned from a long walk and his feet were sore and tired. He was told that the best thing to do was to bathe them in hot water. This he promptly did. In the ordinary course of events he proceeded to dry his feet. He dried one and then put it back into the water. Then he dried the other foot, which he also dipped in the basin. This went on for some time. Then he began to get puzzled. "Good gracious," he muttered at last, "I never knew I had so many feet."

WEST PARISH

George Harrington of China, Maine, is visiting relatives in Osgood District.

Work on Lowell street has stopped for this season and the street is open to the public again.

Andover Grange meets Tuesday evening at 8.00 o'clock. Election of officers for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Blanche Fuller and three children from Tewksbury spent the week-end at the Carter Homestead, High Plain road.

The Essex County Co-operative Association meets this evening at Grange Hall. Mr. Gaskill and Mr. Stiles, our new County agents will be present and will present the work of the Association to Andover farmers.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1920 Essex Agricultural School at Hathorne occurs on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the assembly hall of the main building. Helen M. Lewis of Lowell street is a member of the graduating class.

At a special meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society early in December the vestry fund banks will be opened and the amount added to the steadily growing fund which West Parish ladies are raising for the much-needed vestry for the West church.

Essex County N. E. M. P. A. met at Hathorne on Tuesday afternoon. Officers elected for the coming year were: Chauncey Gleason of Haverhill, president; I. B. Sawyer of Topsfield, vice president and Herbert Lewis, Andover, secretary-treasurer. The milk question in its many phases was discussed. R. W. Lull was the speaker of the day and his optimistic view of the situation, coming as it does from real knowledge, gave the audience an insight into the work of the organization.

At the next meeting of Andover Grange, November 23rd the annual election of officers will be held. As this is one of the most important meetings of the year a good attendance is desired.

The educational aid fund committee plan to conduct a candy sale and the proceeds will be turned over to the educational aid fund. There will also be refreshments in charge of Sidney White, Florence Pike and Everett Boutwell for which each member will be taxed fifteen cents. This is likewise in behalf of the educational aid fund and the committee hope for a full attendance and generous patronage.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

and actively growing, which have to do with the health and hygiene of the civilian and the emergency relief of communities visited by disaster.

More than 15,000 American communities were touched by Red Cross activities during the past fiscal year. Virtually every phase of Red Cross service was included in these activities.

As for disasters there were seventy-three, involving a property loss of $85,000,000 to 164 communities. Wind and storms in the form of tornadoes, cyclones, hurricanes and cloud-bursts accounted for twenty-four. Fire and flood were responsible for an equal number. There were ten shipwrecks, two earthquakes and one landslide. Riots, droughts and accidents of various kinds make up the remainder. The American Red Cross, through 140 of its chapters, furnished aid to 30,000 victims of these catastrophes.

That is a good record along this one line, but its record can be bettered in the future if the response to its Fourth Roll Call is as strong as it should be. The significant thing is that there is no single disaster on the list that may not be repeated at any moment somewhere in this country. One cannot foretell when or where, it may be in one's own community or in a neighboring one, but it is a certainty that they will recur. One form of insurance against them that may be made important and powerful is for every chapter of the American Red Cross to strengthen its membership and give its members a chance to learn the simple emergency relief methods as taught by the organization.

That the emphatic need of abundant preparation for disaster relief has already been heeded is evidenced by the formation of Disaster Preparedness Committees in about 400 chapters and the setting aside of a special emergency fund by the National organization of $5,000,000 in addition to the regular annual appropriation for this purpose made in its budget.

Less spectacular but of the greatest possible value in promoting community welfare are such other activities of the Red Cross as the Foreign Language Information Service; the Community Service of the Junior Red Cross; the Health Service which on June 20, 1920 was in active operation at 128 centers from which radiate innumerable activities designed to improve the health of the community and prevent the spread of disease; the Nursing Service which has established numerous scholarships and is now so extended that 36,000 nurses are on its rolls ready for public health service; the Life-Saving or Water First Aid Service, a rapidly growing branch that includes a complete women's corps; the comparatively recent Home Service in the families of civilians which contemplates not only the conduct of general family welfare work, but also the seeking out and developing of demands for other forms of community service and securing the cooperation of specialized organizations to fill these needs.

Even in this briefly outlined form these furnish effective answers to any query as to the present and future home work of the American Red Cross.

The local secretary reports that up to date subscriptions are coming in by the hundred rather than by the thousand as had been hoped. Less than a week now remains in which to bring Andover up to the mark aimed at by the committee which has the drive in charge.

Not Climate that Produces Singers
says Mrs. Shepherd

Betsy Lane Shepherd, the celebrated soprano, who will sing in the Town hall on Wednesday evening, December first is very sure that climate has practically nothing to do with genius—at least as regards singers.

"We hear people bemoaning the fact that most of the geniuses of the musical world are the product of foreign countries," says Mrs. Shepherd.

"And then, some zealous writer will raise the much mooted question of when there will be an American Grand Opera written as famous as are those of some of the foreign masters," she continues.

"It is the opportunity to work, to study, that counts, not the country one is born in."

"But what about the balmy climate of Naples, and the glorious sunshine of Venice?" Mrs. Shepherd was asked. "Don't you believe that climate affects temperament, and that in turn influences genius? Why, I should think that the sunny skies of Italy, and the beautiful flowery country, and the easy outdoor life everybody leads would make singing the most natural thing in the world?"

The reporter was rather spreading himself so she said.

Mrs. Shepherd threw back her head and laughed.

"My friend," she said, "Perseverance means more than anything else in the cultivation of genius—that and an opportunity to work and to study."

Mrs. Shepherd insists that it is the fact that in foreign countries, the state is ever on the alert to render all the help necessary to naturally gifted children, that makes them produce more geniuses.

Mrs. Shepherd's concert on Wednesday, December 1st, will be an invitation affair, and it is expected that a large audience will greet the famous singer.

Wash-day Does Not Look Like this

NO matter how your washing is done, each week it looms up as a great, big, troublesome problem, doesn't it?

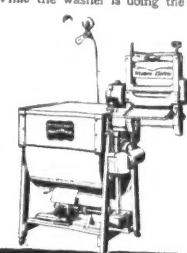

Either you can't get a wash woman, your laundry tears your clothes to pieces, your maid objects to the hard labor, or, if you do it yourself, you waste your own time and strength which in these times, especially, are precious.

The Western Electric Washer and Wringer makes wash day look altogether different, for electricity does the hard work. All you have to do is put your clothes in the wooden cylinder, which revolves and by this motion, works hot suds thru the materials, cleansing them without wearing them. While the washer is doing the washing, other household tasks can be done.

When the clothes are washed, you can wring them electrically, too, and the washer with the wringing wringer you'll find especially convenient because you can swing the wringer to any position you wish.

You'll find this washer an economy—it will soon pay for itself, and about 3 cents' worth of electricity will do the average family wash.

Stop in and see it—we know you will like it.

ALFRED L. AIKEN
President of the Association for the Promotion and Protection of Savings

A new organization, based on the experience and successful work of the Savings Division of the First Federal Reserve District but entirely separate from anything that the Government is doing or will do—to be known as the Association for the Promotion and Protection of Savings—was today incorporated in Boston by leading business and professional men and women. The economic principles underlying savings and investment can be taught in a broader and more far-reaching manner in this independent organization than by the Savings Division, and it will have the privilege of including Government, as well as all other forms of safe investments in its field of effort. It will from the start co-operate with the work of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department.

Lee, Higginson & Company; Stock Exchange, Frank W. Remick of Kidder, Peabody & Company, president Boston Stock Exchange, and Philip W. Wrenn of Wrenn Bros., a director of the Boston Stock Exchange.

Alfred L. Aiken has been elected president, Mrs. F. L. Higginson first vice president; Roger Ernst, second vice president; Allan Forbes, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles S. Heard, executive secretary. The executive committee comprises the president, vice presidents, treasurer and nine directors with these special sub-committee heads:

Banking, George E. Brock; industrial, Charles A. Andrews; publicity, John K. Allen; investigation, George A. Rich, member of the state "Blue Sky" commission and who has charge of investigations on behalf of the Stock Exchange; Mr. Rich to be assisted by Reginald Heber Smith, whose work for the Legal Aid Society has made a deep impression on business men; educational, Prof. T. N. Carver, under whom will come the educational department, of which Miss S. Agnes Donham will be executive secretary; labor, Martin T. Joyce; agriculture, Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert; Chamber of Commerce, John R. Macomber, and Federal Reserve Bank, Charles A. Morris.

The educational department will be divided into school and home economic sections, the former covering education in thrift in colleges, public, private, parochial, normal and vocational schools, and the latter working with women's organizations, fraternal bodies, the Army and Navy, the churches and professions.

The business department will be divided into industrial and commercial, agriculture and banking sections, and will have an executive manager. The industrial and commercial section will work with labor unions, associated industries, the wholesale and retail trades, Americanization committees and Y. M. C. A. industrial secretaries; the agriculture section will be concerned with the granges and farm bureaus, and the banking section will have its work with the savings, national, trust company and co-operative banks, insurance and investment banking concerns.

The publicity committee will issue articles of sound educational value for those who wish to conserve their savings by placing them in the proper kind of institutions and the right investments, reflecting the views of the directors of the association, all persons of good business and financial experience and judgment.

The association aims to teach: Conservation and thrift, and prevent hoarding. To encourage and establish systematic saving and safe investment throughout the industries, agricultural communities, educational institutions, men's and women's organizations.

The fundamental difference between investments and speculations and capital and income.

The necessity for full and careful investigation before making any investment.

The rank of investing in untried enterprises.

The safety of banks, and how banks invest the accumulated small savings entrusted to them.

The new investor will be taught the vital need of new capital to carry on productive enterprises and the personal advantage to himself from increased production brought about through savings and investment. The association will be a clearing house for all thrift and conservation work carried on by organizations, and will make the teaching of safe investment of equal importance with the other forms of conservation by means of study courses, etc. Personal contact will be established by means of the secretaries, through salesmen, lectures by bankers and investment bankers to employees and organizations, and by budget makers in banks. Purchase of sound securities on small, systematic payments, and savings clubs will be encouraged in industrial plants, stores and organizations.

—BUY W. S. S.—

There never was a great big man who failed to realize the importance of small things. Because a matter might seem trivial on the surface, did not place it beneath their dignity. Abraham Lincoln once shouldered a trunk for a 12 year old girl and carried it to the station for her so she could catch a train. George Washington got down from his horse and helped a squad of privates swing a bridge timber in place although the corporal in command of the squad was too dignified to help. Chief Justice John Marshall of the Supreme Court of the United States was not too dignified to play marbles on the floor to put a youngster at his ease.

They were big enough to look after small things. Some people have the mistaken idea that because they apparently are prosperous and getting ahead, they can afford to overlook small savings. They think it undignified to stop the small wastes and petty extravagances that drain their pockets and consider that investment of the sums that might be so saved in the small savings securities of the government is beneath their notice. It is only when misfortune overtakes them that they realize that they have placed themselves in the same position as Washington's corporal who was too high and mighty to lift with his men, although his commander-in-chief could and did do so.

Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn Loeb Co., one of the biggest bankers of the country, who is accustomed to handle hundreds of millions of dollars yearly had this to say about these small investments recently in a personal letter to a friend in Boston:

"No safer, more attractive or more convenient medium for savings was ever offered in this or any other country than our War Savings Stamps and Registered Treasury Savings Certificates. Their advantages are well known and universally appreciated. It is the duty of all banks and bankers throughout the nation to aid and assist the Thrift Campaign of the Government in its efforts to induce people to place their savings in War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. By so doing they will complete and perpetuate a valuable public service done by them with such splendid patriotism and admirable efficiency during the war."

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

(Copyright, 1920, by James Morgan.)

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

1857—Sept. 15, William Howard Taft born in Cincinnati.

1878—Graduated at Yale.

1887-90—Judge of the Superior Court.

1890-2—Solicitor General of the United States.

1892-1900—United States circuit judge.

1900-04—Commissioner in and governor of the Philippines.

1904-8—Secretary of war.

1909—Inaugurated twenty-sixth president, aged fifty-one.

WHEN Roosevelt and Taft rode up Pennsylvania avenue on March 4, 1909, it was the first time since Jackson and Van Buren had passed that way side by side, more than 70 years before, that a retiring president would not have preferred another seat mate and successor than the one whom the fortunes of politics had thrust upon him.

Roosevelt alone selected his successor.

Naturally, everyone assumed that we were to have a Roosevelt administration by another name, and it was expected in the campaign that the ex-president would not go farther away from the White House than Oyster Bay. Instead, he plunged into the depths of Africa.

The fate of William Howard Taft would be pathetic if he himself had not met it and borne it with a smile.

He was abler, more upright, more independent than some far more successful presidents. But by bent and training he was a judge, and the

William Howard Taft.

White House is no place for a judge.

As lawgiver and governor of Manila, Taft had won the confidence of his oriental subjects, and rather than desert his post, before his task was finished, he sacrificed the dearest ambition of his life. In a year and a half Roosevelt had him in his cabinet as secretary of war—and soon had him in his eye for the presidency.

Roosevelt had the weakness of his strength. He thought he was strong enough to make a president. But real presidents are born, not made.

The moment Roosevelt was gone, the standpatters, the reactionary forces, emerged from their seven and one-half years in the cyclone cellar. The moment the political broncho felt the tenderfoot on its back, it bucked, and threw Taft from the seat of leadership. The next thing the rank and file of Republicans knew, the party was slipping back into the old rut from which Roosevelt had jerked it when first he laid upon it his masterful hand.

But the people refused to go back. Eight months after Taft's inauguration, the election of 1909 sounded a clear warning of the disaster that overwhelmed the party in the congressional election of 1910, and which all but destroyed it in the presidential election of 1912.

According to a story that was told of Taft, a curious stranger asked a gatekeeper at the Union station in Washington where he would stand the best chance of seeing the president in the few spare hours that he had between trains. "Right where you are," was the reply. "He's always either taking a train or getting off of one."

Taft was the first president to draw the present salary of $75,000. Congress had also adopted, two years before he came in, the custom of allowing $25,000 yearly for the traveling expenses of the president, and he became the great presidential traveler, making a record of 150,000 miles in four years, as he went about the country appealing for a reversal of the verdict against his administration. In vain he strove to turn back the tide, which only sported with him.

After having elected him by 1200-000 plurality, the people parted with Taft more in sorrow than in anger. They did not question that he was a good president, but that is a secondary consideration. A president must be first of all a politician and a leader.

Edison Devices Aided U. S. Navy Defeat U-Boats

The Sunday New York American publishes the following dispatch from Washington:

The part American ingenuity played in winning the war is disclosed in a history of the Naval Consulting Board of the United States, made public by Secretary Daniels today.

The volume reveals achievements which, if projected a decade ago, probably would have been ridiculed as "visionary." Chief among these was a device by which the launching of a torpedo could be heard on shipboard 4,000 yards away—or further than a torpedo can be effectively launched from a submarine.

This invention was but one of a score or more contributed by Thomas A. Edison, president of the board.

Mr. Edison appears to have been the moving spirit of the board. Forsaking his laboratories at the outbreak of the war, he practically became a naval officer. He spent most of his time in the Navy Department offices here, and took long deep-sea cruises that he might be in closer touch with the problems to be solved.

HIS "LISTENING DEVICE"

Because of the German submarine menace, ship protection claimed most of the attention of the board. To this problem Mr. Edison devoted his traditional twenty-hour working days, and after overcoming many obstacles finally perfected his listening device.

This contrivance was in the form of an outrigger suspended from the bowsprit of a vessel and containing an immense phonograph diaphragm. By means of compensators, the noise of the vessel's engines was obliterated, thus making it possible for the device to work perfectly even when the ship was plowing at full speed through the roughest seas.

With this device boats moving 1,700 yards away could be readily heard while the vessel was going full speed. A submarine bell five and one-half miles away could also be heard while a big storm was in progress and the boat also proceeding at full speed.

Mr. Edison followed this invention with a device for the quick turning of a vessel whenever the detector indicated that a torpedo was coming in the vessel's direction. He did this by means of strong conical canvas bags. A heavy rope was attached to the mouth of the bag, and a light rope, in a slip knot, to the tapering end.

THE "DRAG" FOR QUICK VEERING

When cast into the sea the mouth opened, filling the bag with water and thus acting as a drag. By pulling the lighter rope the small end of the bag was opened. This let the water out, instantly relieving the resistance. Four of these bags cast from the side of a 5,000-ton vessel laden with 4,000 tons of coal caused it to turn ninety degrees from her course in two minutes, with an advance of only 200 feet.

Night sailing of ships next attracted his attention. By working day and night over the records of submarine sinkings he discovered that not more than 6 per cent of the sinkings took place at night.

Mr. Edison commenced to work out his plans for the ships to sail in and out of the danger zone at night; to forsake the old standard lines of travel as much as possible; to anchor through the day in comparatively shallow waters and harbors where submarines could not approach them, steaming only at night to other ports of anchorage on the way to their destinations.

STRATEGIC MAPS

Mr. Edison prepared a new set of strategic maps on which he charted the harbors in which there was safe anchorage for a long distance inshore in comparatively shallow, but safe waters, where submarines could not approach submerged.

Other wartime inventions by Mr. Edison were a cartridge for taking soundings; a convoy light visible to all the vessels in the convoy, but invisible from the decks of a submarine; an underwater searchlight capable of throwing rays 200 feet; a projectile that would enter the water from an angle instead of ricocheting; a stabilizer for submerged submarines, and a time-fuse to cause shrapnel to burst only six feet above the ground.

He devised a mask to protect observers on the tops of masts from smoke-stack gas, a turbine head for projectiles which enabled the latter to be fired from smooth bore guns and still have rotation and accuracy; drew up plans for mining Zeebrugge Harbor, and developed a method by which communicating signals between warships could be sent by means of mirrors.

PREVENTED SINKINGS

Mr. Edison devoted a great deal of thought to various plans for preventing sinkings, and he suggested a number of schemes to this end. One of these was a proposition to furnish merchant ships with a type of specially designed three-inch shells filled with an oleum smoke-producing compound with which to blind submarines if they had long range guns.

The problem of extinguishing fires in coal bunkers he solved with a small stream of silicate of soda played on a coal or wood fire. The moment the silicate strikes the incandescent body the small quantity of water in the silicate evaporates, and the glowing body becomes coated with a glassy surface, excluding the oxygen and extinguishing the fire.

"DIRECTION FINDER"

The study of a direction finder for hostile airplanes was undertaken to determine the direction of a plane before it was visible, by determining the direction of the source of the sound given off by its engines. This is how it was done:

Two horns at a fixed angle to one another conveyed the sound to opposite sides of the same diaphragm and swung the horn system, both in horizontal and vertical planes, until there was no movement of the diaphragm, because the sounds conveyed by both horns were of equal value and therefore neutralized one another.

It was found very difficult to get zero readings, but with some training on the part of the observer the direction could be determined with considerable accuracy.

Having learned that telephone systems on ships were not very reliable, Mr. Edison devised one that was. He discarded microphones and substituted the receiving phone for a transmitter. The signals being weak he amplified with an audion, which made the signals so loud as to be painful to the ear.

Mr. Edison also invented an extension ladder which could be attached to the top of the mast and give an observer a location 87 feet above the top of the mast. This device increased the area of observation.

Hunters Using Airplane Arrested

The first arrest under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act for hunting wild fowl from an airplane was made in Missouri recently when the long arm of the law reached into the air and seized two men for hunting and killing wild geese from an air craft. The arrest was made by a warden of the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, who administers the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Following their arrest the hunters made the trip to the office of the United States Commissioner at Caruthersville, Mo., in their plane. They had previously boasted of their ability, while flying, to herd the geese more effectively than sportsmen on the ground can possibly do. Hunting of the sort in which they engaged is specifically forbidden by the Federal law and the regulations thereunder. Several States have passed laws forbidding hunting from airplanes, among them being California, Michigan, New Jersey, North Carolina, and South Carolina. There is considerable sentiment in sporting circles against the practice, on the ground that it is unsportsmanlike.

"By the last annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company we find that in 1918 the number of exchange connections for Bell telephones alone was about ten thousand seven hundred and fifty millions, or a daily number of over thirty-two millions.

BALLARDVALE

Mrs. B. F. Stafford is visiting relatives in Lynn.

There will be a dance in the Community room on Thanksgiving night.

The Red Cross drive is on and it is hoped that there will be a generous response.

Mrs. Laura Juhlman and her brother, Frank Petty attended the Harvard-Brown football game in Cambridge, last Saturday.

The storm of last Tuesday night blew over an electric light pole on Center street. The electric light department was notified and a new pole was put up.

Invitations are out for the men's get-together social to be held in the vestry of the Congregational church on Tuesday evening, November 30. The men will have entire charge of the affair which promises to be something novel.

Several new pictures have been added to the Bradley School through the efforts of the scholars, who have sold chocolate bars to accomplish the result. Each room has received two pictures, reproductions from the good paintings which are loved by young and old, and which will add much to the attractiveness of the school rooms. Among the subjects chosen are "A Reading from Homer," "Sir Galahad," "The Angelus," "Pilgrims Going to Church." The children are most pleased to have these pictures in the rooms and gladly sold the candy to get the prints.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

In honor of their silver wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. J. William Marjerson of 17 Haddon street, tendered an informal reception to their near relatives last evening. Yesterday was also the 35th anniversary of John R. Marjerson, Mr. Marjerson's brother, and Mrs. Marjerson of 579 Haverhill street. J. William Marjerson and Miss Sarah E. Haynes were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Ballardvale by Rev. Henry Wood, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Evans, at that time pastor of the Ballardvale Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Wood was among the guests last evening and also Mrs. Marjerson's sister, Mrs. Joseph Stott of Ballardvale, who was her bridesmaid.

Mrs. Marjerson was born in Ballardvale and attended the Ballardvale schools and Abbot Academy. Her father was Felix G. Haynes, a prominent Ballardvale resident. Mr. Marjerson was born in this city and attended the local public schools. For many years he has been a printer in the Pacific Print Works. He is a member of Grecian lodge, A. F. and A. M., Mount Sinai Royal Arch chapter, Lawrence council, R. and S. M., and Bethany commandery, Knights Templar.

John R. Marjerson is assistant superintendent of the Arlington mills with which corporation he has been connected for many years. He is prominent in Masonic circles. Mr. and Mrs. Marjerson have two children; Sydney of Salem, N. H., and Marion, and two grandchildren.

After Fair Meeting

There was a good attendance at the business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, which was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Horace Neil on Andover street.

Reports of the last meeting were read and accepted, followed by a very pleasing report of the most successful fair ever held in the history of the society. The sum total, clear of all expenses, was $188.13 which was very gratifying to the members.

The following sums were realized on the several tables; Thanksgiving $30; handkerchiefs, $20.47; plain work, $45.68; candy, $30. tickets, $45.40; mystery, $10.36; ice cream, $6.22. The ladies wish to thank the public for their generous patronage.

It was voted, from their abundance, that the sum of $50 be given to the pastor, at the earliest opportunity.

It was also voted to hold a New Year's social on Friday, December 30. The following persons to have the affair in charge: Miss Melissa McKee, Miss Mary Worthen, Mrs. Irving Shaw, Mrs. John Pendleton. The entertainment will be in charge of Mrs. William Matthews.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many kind friends and neighbors for the sympathy and kindness shown us during our recent bereavement, in the loss of our beloved husband and father, James Nicoll, also for the many floral tributes.

MRS. JAMES NICOLL and FAMILY

Thank Those Who Donated to the Bazaar

In behalf of the young ladies in charge of the St. Augustine's table at the American Legion Bazaar recently held in the Town hall, I wish to extend thanks to all those who so kindly donated money and articles to that table. I am also glad to announce that the net income amounted to $279.65.

Respectfully submitted,

MARGARET M. O'SULLIVAN

Tomorrow night the executive committee of the Andover Historical Society has planned a meeting at its rooms on Main street for all those who are interested in the question as to whether or not the 275th anniversary of the founding of Andover shall be marked by any celebration.

If you feel that the occasion should not pass without some recognition, tomorrow evening at the society rooms is the time and the place for voicing your opinion. If on the other hand you disapprove of any such movement you will then and there have an opportunity for airing the reasons for that judgement.

The preparation of a historical page by the men, women and children of Andover would doubtless teach much of local history and engender a community spirit which such large undertakings almost invariably foster. It must also be remembered that to carry out a successful program which would approach the high standard which the society has set for its public entertainments would mean a vast amount of work.

Do you approve of such an undertaking and do you wish to help promote it? If so, be sure to attend the meeting tomorrow night. This is the time for serious consideration of the question and an exchange of ideas. Everyone is welcome.

Stearns Case Given to Jury

The case of Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Phillips Andover academy, who is suing James J. Phelan, et al., trustees of the Connecticut Valley Lumber company for $2,000 damages claimed to have been done to a camp bordering on Connecticut lake, Pittsburg, county of Coos, N. H., went to the jury in superior civil court before George A. Flynn early yesterday afternoon.

In an agreement in which Mr. Stearns entered with the company they were to remove a cottage belonging to him from a tract bordering on the lake to another tract, build a road leading to the new location, and turn over to the plaintiff certain wood cut during the operation. This agreement, Mr. Stearns claims, was not properly fulfilled, in that the camp was damaged, the road leading to the camp constructed by the company was of inferior quality and certain wood supposed to be turned over to the plaintiff was given to him only in part.

The company entered into the agreement in order that they might get flamage rights for lumber which they were cutting in the vicinity of the lake.

Free Church Notes

"Home Missions vs. Foreign Missions, or Does Charity Begin at Home?" will be the subject for discussion at the Men's Discussion Class next Sunday noon. A frank facing of this much-mooted question will do much to acquaint one with the facts about the missionary enterprises toward which one is asked to give. Come and discuss it.

Sunday at 7.15 the evening service at Free church will be resumed with an address by Rev. Edward C. Boynton of Worcester. Mr. Boynton has recently returned from the Interdenominational Conferences in Switzerland. He will tell about the very important results of these meetings where delegates from all over the world and from nearly every branch of the Christian church met in friendly conference. Many Andover people will remember Mr. Boynton as the son of Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, the well-known Brooklyn preacher. It may be assumed that the address will be no formal report for Mr. Boynton, Jr. inherits much of his father's power and eloquence.

Wealth of Action Pleases Scenarist

A. S. Le Veno, scenarist, who transcribed Jack London's widely-read story, "Burning Daylight", to the screen script for Metro, said at the completion of his work that the novel had enough action and material for two or three big pictures.

"It seems a shame to use all of this wonderful material in one production," said Le Veno. "I can easily get two big pictures out of 'Burning Daylight'."

But C. E. Shurtleff, president of the producing firm bearing his name would not hear of splitting the story. He was agreeable to eliminating unimportant portions of the book but insisted that one big smashing feature be made of "Burning Daylight."

The picture is a realistic version of London's story and loses nothing in the filming. Mr. Le Veno introduces a new character in the story, Lucille, and around this New York society girl and adventures, romance and intrigue are woven. Gertrude Astor as Lucille, wears some stunning gowns and sport clothes, and these, together with her striking appearance, give the character an important place in the cast.

"Burning Daylight" will be presented today at the Colonial Theatre.

Milk Dealers Fined

For selling adulterated milk Aaron Kasabian of Chandler road, Andover, and Nushiam Asouan of Willow street, North Andover, paid fines in Andover police court this morning before Judge Stone. Kasabian was fined $50.00 and Asouan $25.00.

The complaints against them were brought by state milk inspectors connected with the state department of health.

Local Boy Acts As Cheer Leader

Harry Read, son of H. A. S. Read of Andover, is acting as cheer leader for Roxbury team of Cheshire, Conn., in their big game with Milford School at Weiss Ball Park in New Haven this afternoon. This will be one of the greatest secondary school games of the season, both for the size of the crowd, made up of thousands of sport fans in the city for the Yale-Harvard game Saturday, and for the interest of Yale coaches in material for future elevens that will be presented for their inspection in this struggle. Roxbury draws athletes from all the big private schools because the Roxbury teams are all under the observation of Yale coaches. "Al" Norris, now star center on the Yale Freshman team, first came into prominence last year for his work on the Roxbury team in this annual game with Milford.

Local League of Women Voters Represented at Boston Meetings

Mrs. Frank L. Brigham, president of the Andover League of Women Voters was present at the dinner given last night at the Copley Plaza, Boston, in honor of the new officers of the National League. The speakers of the evening were Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, Mrs. Maude Wood Park, Mrs. La Rue Brown, and Miss Mary McDowell.

Mrs. J. M. Birdsall has been a delegate from the Andover League during the three-day's session which closed with Thursday evening's banquet.

Getting in Touch With the Best

Edward Everett Hale used to counsel young people to converse every day with some one older, better and wiser than themselves. We cannot all do that, but we can do the next best thing: we can get in touch with them through the printed page and enjoy the fruits of their wisdom and experience. Probably no publication contains so much from the writings of men and women distinguished in many ways as The Youth's Companion. A constant reading of the paper is a liberal education of mind and heart.

The Companion has no age limit. Professional men, business men and busy women prize it as highly as the young folks.

Farm Bureau Meeting at Grange Hall Tonight

The Andover Farm Bureau committee has arranged for the annual Farm Bureau meeting at the Grange Hall, West Andover, this evening, November 19th at 7.30.

Andover has the reputation in the past of giving the best support of any town in the country to extension work. Will she continue that reputation?

At the meeting plans will be discussed with the County Agent for next year's work. J. S. Carver, poultry specialist, will present attractive projects in the poultry work and S. D. Davenport, fruit specialist, along the fruit lines.

L. G. Dodge will describe the work of the new membership Farm Bureau which is being organized in Essex County.

Plan to attend and bring a neighbor.

Punchard Notes

The Sophomore girls basketball team played the Junior Lawrence High school team yesterday afternoon at the Guild house, the score being 28 to 11 in favor of Punchard.

Punchard football team goes to Lowell on Friday to play the last game of the season.

The preliminary contest for the annual Goldsmith prize-speaking takes place next week.

Wednesday, November 10, on the Pinkerton Academy grounds, the Pinkerton girls' basketball team defeated the Punchard Sophomores with a score of 12-6. The game was well fought, and all the baskets made were well earned.

Referee for first half was Mr. Foxall of Pinkerton; for second half Miss Faunce of Punchard. The lineup:

six in Christ Church Parish House.

You will be in the best of company for, of course, all the Pilgrim ladies at the various booths came over on the Mayflower — or rather their ancestors.

And although you may find that you have been delicately parted from most of your money, when you feel that you must leave, still, you will have received so much for it that you will be well satisfied.

Be sure to bring the children, for although its a little late for Arbor Day, a sugar-plum tree has been tenderly planted and raised by these same Pilgrim dames hanging with all kinds of sugar plums, and with the original old Chocolate Cat cavorting around in its branches when it hears the barking of the Gingerbread Dog underneath.

The old White Goose, who believes in a fair exchange, will be in his pen just waiting to eat up the children's pennies and with a nice present instead for them.

In the evening the play, "The Old Peabody Pew" by Kate Douglas Wiggin will be given at 8.00 o'clock.

It is interesting to know that the original old pews of the old Free church will be used on the platform. Douglas Crawford will read the short explanatory story before and after the first act.
